ATR VERDICT: ACADIAN ANGEL ran respectably in a much better race than this over course and distance seven days ago and must be respected turned out so quickly by John Quinn. The assessor has dropped her 3lb, while Phil Dennis' claim doubles that amount and she looks poised to go well. Pulsating finished a good second at Lingfield on Friday and should enjoy this step back up to 7f if turned out quickly, while Tavener outran lofty odds of 66-1 at Lingfield last time and would be a threat if replicating that level of form here.

ATR VERDICT: Faadhel didn't show much promise in two starts in maiden company last year and could be one for later in the season when tried in handicaps on turf, while Ateem went backwards last season after initially looking promising in his first couple of starts. It could be worth taking a chance on BLACKHEATH, who ran a career-best second on the all-weather when last seen in November and looks poised to shed his maiden tag.

ATR VERDICT: JAZIRAT finally got the victory both his talent and reputation demanded last time when opening his account at the fourth attempt and the 220,000gns purchase, who is a brother to the Group Two winner Birchwood, can follow up here for his Godolphin handler Charlier Appleby. He can reverse form with Vale Of Kent, who was just half a length ahead of him when they last met, while Dubai Acclaim is respected on his second try at 7f after staying on to break his duck over 6f latest.

ATR VERDICT: A wind operation has seemed to do the trick for MIMRAM, who followed up his second at Chelmsford with a win over a mile last time at Wolverhampton. He should prove to be just as effective back at 7f having received just a 3lb rise and can account for the other recent winner in the field, Brockey Rise, who needs to prove his ability at today's trip. Kheleyf's Girl went close last time and could be underrated on her first start for Clare Ellam, while it may be worth considering Darkest Light, who was a beaten favourite last time and sports first-time cheekpieces on this occasion.

ATR VERDICT: DESERT ACE has an uncanny knack of finishing second, but a switch to expert sprint trainer Paul Midgley can resolve that now. He filled his usual spot on his first start for the Yorkshire handler but can improve on that here with Graham Lee capable of delivering him on the line at the tight time. C&D winner Liquid has been raised 6lb for his February victory and is respected, while the enigmatic Sandra's Secret is arguably better at this distance and may be ready to land another shock.

ATR VERDICT: CLERGYMAN was an easy winner of a C&D contest last week and should be hard to beat once again here despite being handed an 8lb rise in the ratings. Highly Focussed was sent off a well-backed favourite when fourth here last time and is sure to be popular again, while Frank The Barber and Celerity make most appeal of those at bigger odds.

ATR VERDICT: Jamie Osborne produced something just short of a miracle when saddling Haraz to break his maiden tag at the 38th attempt last time, however, he may have to return to his usual supporting role now, with preference for the hat-trick seeking DAZEEKHA. Michael Herrington's mare has thrived over the course and distance the last twice and the further rise in the weights shouldn't be an issue here. The Lacemaker could improve for the application of cheekpieces and Silvestre De Sousa taking over in the saddle, while Catheadans Fury shouldn't be far off the premises.

ATR VERDICT: MISS DUSKY DIVA was well held latest but made the podium over 2m the three times before that and is well worth another try at this distance. She has won at the course in the past and is 1lb lower than when last entering the winner's enclosure. The consistent Travis Bickle could relish the extended trip here and is one to consider, while any market support for What A Party would be notable following nearly two years off the track.
