ATR VERDICT: Well-bred filly SWING BOWLER made a big impression when winning bumpers at Wincanton and Warwick in 2011, and the fact they were seven months apart shows she can go well when fresh. Embarking on her hurdling career today following another 53-day break, David Pipe's inmate is fancied to maintain the trainer's excellent recent run of form. Charlie Wingnut faded into fifth following a costly mistake two-out on his hurdling bow over 2m4f at Doncaster but the experience won't be lost on him and a drop in distance here could see him in a better light. Captain Brown and Sonoran Sands are others of note.

ATR VERDICT: Lightly-raced nine-year-old SECRET WORLD might be worth another chance now his sights are lowered. He ran well in a couple of novice hurdles around this time last year and although pulled up in a hot handicap won by Celestial Halo on his seasonal bow at Newbury in December, he caught the eye performing with credit in a recent 'bumper for jumpers' at Kempton. Leicester runner-up High On A Hill will appreciate the better ground but is almost certainly going to need more of a test, while Hereford second Monte Cavallo may also need further having been more of a stayer on the Flat. Red Inca has also shown enough promise to be of interest.

ATR VERDICT: HASSADIN comes out best on these terms and can take advantage of a return to selling company. Michael Blake's charge landed a race of this nature at Catterick 12 months ago and although well beaten on his two most recent starts, a repeat of his narrow defeat at the hands of Grams And Ounces at Hereford in December could make him the one to beat. Hat-trick seeker King Of Castile must concede plenty of weight all round but he looked in fine fettle when landing a 2m7f handicap at Fontwell last month and appears the obvious threat to the selection. Blue Ronnie is relatively unexposed and could have more to offer having put in a career best at Uttoxeter recently, albeit in moderate company.

Long Handicap: Chargen 9 - 7, Grasscutter 9 - 6

ATR VERDICT: Esteem confirmed his wellbeing with a solid second at Ffos Las on Sunday but he's still burdened with a 7lb penalty for winning at Southwell last Wednesday and might be worth opposing with AKARSHAN. He shaped like the outing would do him the world of good when fifth here on his return from a long layoff last month and a subsequent spin on the level at Wolverhampton will have boosted his fitness further. Returned to fences off a 6lb lower mark than for his most recent hurdle win, there's no doubting Evan Williams' charge is handicapped to go close. Roc De Guye completes the shortlist.

Long Handicap: Tayarat 9 - 12

ATR VERDICT: A Little Bit Dusty already has an excellent strike-rate over hurdles but he was mopping up at plating level when last seen in the autumn and will need to have improved again to make a winning return to action now up in class. Taareesh is also fresh from a break and won a novice event at Worcester in July, but the vote goes to ROLL THE DICE. He had subsequent winner Monarch's Way back in fourth when opening his account over this trip at Warwick last month and a 5lb rise in the ratings doesn't seem overly harsh.

Long Handicap: Quayside Court 9 - 3, Feeling Peckish 8 - 13

ATR VERDICT: Point-to-point winner MALIN HEAD made a successful start over regulation fences when landing a good-ground handicap chase over 2m5f at Folkestone last month and, having started on such a low mark, he must have an excellent chance of defying a 6lb hike in the ratings. Folie A Deux is up 5lb for last month's C&D triumph and this race looks a little stronger if anything, so perhaps fellow C&D scorer Ere Alfie will pose the selection more problems having slipped back to his last winning mark following a couple of moderate performances on unsuitably easy ground.

ATR VERDICT: Former Nicky Henderson inmate POLYFAST won a decent handicap chase over this sort of trip at Kempton last January and although he failed to complete the course in two subsequent 2011 appearances, he lines up here on the back of a point-to-point second and should prove too good if running up to anything like his current mark of 132. Fresh Air And Fun, rated 14lb below the selection and only in receipt of 8lb, clearly has plenty on his plate returning from 345 days off but he, too, is having his first start in this type of race and would not be a shock winner. Bermuda Boy may prove best of the rest.

ATR VERDICT: Point-to-point winner DANANDY made no mistake on his debut under Rules when landing a 2m3f Fontwell bumper in good style last month and he looks a lovely chasing prospect for the future. He can certainly pay his way over the smaller obstacles for the time being and 3m on good ground will be right up his street. Barenger is probably the pick of the opposition having looked like a more demanding test would suit when a staying-on fourth on his jumps bow over 2m4f at Doncaster. Knockalongi and Mystic Appeal could pick up races of this nature before long but may have to settle for supporting roles again today.

Top Tip: DANANDY
Watch out for: BARENGER
