ATR VERDICT: Bernard Llewellyn has already matched the number of winners he landed last term and has seen his horses run consistently well of late. SHADOW'S BOY can provide the Welsh handler with winner number seven for the season and a repeat of his second placed effort behind Tempestatefloresco at Ludlow should be good enough to take this contest. Speedalong produced a career best when second on his last start of last season and there could be more to come from the six-year-old of Jeremy Scott, while Drinks Interval has seen the form of his Ludlow victory earlier this autumn franked by the second, Majestic Moll, who scored at Doncaster at the weekend.

ATR VERDICT: PETTICOAT TAILS showed a fair level of form in bumper company last season, winning twice before finishing second in Listed company and third in a Grade 2. The form of the latter has worked out well, with the winner landing a Listed contest over hurdles at Newbury just five days ago. This step up in distance looks likely to suit Warren Greatrex's charge and she can take this en route to better things. Midnight Tune was second in a competitive mares' handicap hurdle over course and distance last time and looks a big threat, while Just A Thought looks best of the remainder.

ATR VERDICT: JENNYS SURPRISE did it well on her return from a year off the track at Uttoxeter last time out and the nine-year-old remains on a handy mark for the all-conquering Fergal O'Brien team. A 6lb rise doesn't look too harsh, and she can account for Daklondike, whose Chepstow fourth when attempting to follow up last time was disappointing. The quick turnaround could have been an excuse for that, but the likes of Wizards Bridge and Gorsky Island could prove bigger threats this time.

ATR VERDICT: CAPELAND has not hit the heights he once promised but his last two starts have proven that he can go well in a race of this nature. Coeur Blimey is another who has been a bit disappointing since his bumper days but he was entitled to have needed his seasonal return. Global Thrill has been in outstanding form in recent months and he has to be given the utmost respect today.

ATR VERDICT: Armedandbeautiful will be popular following back-to-back second-placed finishes but soft ground would have to be a worry for him. With that in mind, preference is for LEITH HILL LEGASI, who relishes soft ground and made an encouraging seasonal return at Chepstow last month. Shanann Star does have to shoulder top weight but his sole Rules win to date came under similar conditions here in February.

ATR VERDICT: CHATEAU ROBIN showed improved form on his chasing debut when a close up second to Lough Derg Jewel at Ayr last month and looks the type capable of further improvement over the larger obstacles. Bredon Hill Lad went up 4lb for his most recent success at Ffos Las and warrants consideration running here on the same terms as last time due to his amateur rider's 7lb claim, while Zayfire Aramis is best of the remainder.

ATR VERDICT: Grand Sancy raced far too keenly for his own good when fourth at Market Rasen to Normal Norman but has a first-time hood to help him settle and it could easily bring about further improvement. Kingofthecotswolds is respected coming from a yard that couldn't be in better form but ACEY MILAN has the strongest form in the book, having finished second to what looked a useful individual in Volcano at Exeter, and he comes from a yard who do well with their bumper horses. Copperhead and Bard Of Brittany are two others worthy of a market check on debut.
