ATR VERDICT: Hardlinewas boasts a Grade 2 win among his four hurdle victories last season and the Gigginstown House Stud representative warrants respect now making the switch to fences. However, preference is for ARVICO BLEU, with Henry De Bromhead's six-year-old beaten less than two lengths on his chasing debut by Le Richebourg, who landed the Grade 3 Like A Butterfly Chase on his next start. Capital Force has plenty of chase experience and he can capitalise on any mistakes by the aforementioned two.

ATR VERDICT: BARGY LADY was far from convincing on her chasing debut at Sligo but the extended distance here gives Willie Mullins' useful six-year-old a chance to get back on track. Polar Present was one place ahead in third that day but has questions to answer having come to grief at Gowran Park last time. Creation would have a chance on her chasing bow if repeating the form of her one-length defeat by Dawn Shadow in a Listed hurdle at the Punchestown Festival, while a tongue-tie may assist Turndownthevolume, who has been seen mainly in the pointing field of late. Make My Heart Fly saw her four-race winning summer hurdles run come to an end in Listed company at Gowran last time and would be an interesting chasing newcomer if taking part, but has an alternative engagement at Limerick on Sunday.

ATR VERDICT: Easy Ballinrobe winner DOUBLE PORTRAIT has been given the chance to follow up here following a fair 5lb rise from the assessor, and the six-year-old can hold off the veteran Old Supporter, who proved age is just a number when battling to victory at Tramore in the summer and now makes his first start for Peter Maher. The five-year-old Hitdroadjack looks set to only improve over fences in the hands of a top handler of chasers, while the consistent duo of Bellgrove and Oighear Dubh, who sports first-time cheekpieces, are others to note.

Top Tip: DOUBLE PORTRAIT (3)

ATR VERDICT: Sometime Soon comfortably won a bumper at this venue in February before disappointing in two subsequent starts, and the 2017 point-to-point scorer may improve for switching to hurdles, while the same owners have a strong chance with Jan Maat, second in a Killarney bumper last time. However, THE SHUNTER arguably brings the single best piece of form to the table with his third behind subsequent Cheltenham Festival third and Punchestown Festival winner Tornado Flyer in a course bumper in January, and he gets the vote to make a winning start to his jumping career.

ATR VERDICT: Toor General won nicely under today's rider at Roscommon earlier in the month and he should remain competitive off a 5lb higher mark, while Knock On Steel is respected following his all-the-way maiden victory at Clonmel, form which is working out well. However, preference is for Matthew Smith's handicap debutant WARNAQ. She certainly didn't disgrace herself in three above-average maiden hurdles last season and, having performed with lots of promise on the Flat since, this opening mark of 103 looks workable.

Top Tip: WARNAQ (8)

ATR VERDICT: MILOMYNIT produced her best performance to date when third on her handicap debut over 2m3f at Downpatrick last month and with the fourth since franking that form with a win, she can defy a 3lb rise to score. Gliondar Mo Chroi is more than capable when on a going day, like at Ballinrobe 22 days ago, and she must enter calculations, while Oromo deserves his place on the shortlist following a much-improved showing at Gowran last week.

ATR VERDICT: Roney made an encouraging debut at Cork and she can take a hand in the finish here, while Westport Lady and Lill Smith haven't been without promise either. However, those with experience don't set the bar overly high and it might pay to take a chance on newcomer SILK AND SAND. Joseph O'Brien has his string in fine form at present and this filly is certainly bred for the job, being a half-sister to high-class bumper performer Bordini. Kashmir Wilde is another debutant to note.
