ATR VERDICT: GRAYSTOWN kept on well to score at Ayr last time and with cheekpieces now tried to help his jumping, he could build on that success off a 5lb higher mark. The form of his triumph on the west coast of Scotland has worked out well with the second winning comfortably on his next start and the selection should have enough to see off Paul Stafford's Well Joey, who appreciated the heavy ground when second over course and distance earlier this month and is given a chance racing off the same rating. Katalystic was third here when last seen and could have a part to play if not inconvenienced by the drop in trip, while Roxyfet remains feasibly treated but has a point to prove away from his beloved Sedgefield.

Top Tip: GRAYSTOWN (1)

Watch out for: WELL JOEY (6)
