ATR VERDICT: PENNY OUT lost out by the minimum margin in a staying handicap at Galway and looks poised to go one better. Her jockey reported that she never really travelled in Ballybrit, so it was to her credit that she stayed on strongly before failing by a nose. She has won twice over hurdles and, indeed, was third in a Grade 3 mares' novices' hurdle at Down Royal in November. She has the class to take this. My Sister Sarah is a significant threat after a good second place in a Grade B handicap hurdle in Galway, where she was well clear of the third. She won her bumper at Roscommon on debut, so this two-mile maiden won't hold any fears for her. Rocket Lad is a course and distance winner who should be ripe for this after taking second over an extended mile and three quarters at Killarney. Snegurochka was noted coming from a long way back for third in Galway, and could go well at a price.
