EXPERT VIEW: Fifty Sent has every chance of landing a double if able to translate his recent AW form back on turf. On balance he looks just about as good on turf and just about sets the standard but given just two wins in 33 career runs it's worth taking him on at likely cramped odds. Mr Jetman is the obvious alternative and poses a masive threat if running to the level seen last time when a fine second in an amateur handicap at Doncaster. He should be bang there again. However, both are taken on with GLENCALVIE who should strip fitter after a recent run off a break and whose turf form is superior to the AW on which she's been plying her trade recently. A bold run in first time cheekpieces is expected. Edvard Greig is another worthy of consideration now back on turf having failed to fire on the AW.
