EXPERT VIEW: An open race can go to the unexposed THEMANINTHEANORAK who proved steadily progressive in maidens. The way he finished off his race last time suggested that he would have much more to offer now handicapping over longer trips such as this. Blue Reed raced too close to a strong pace last time but is well treated on his winter form and has the potential for an easy lead here. He could be tough to peg back if doing so and looks a big threat along with Leis Fein who posted an improved effort last time. Whilst he is not one to rely on backing that up he could be well treated returned to handicaps.
